Michael Ponce

Michael Ponce is a proud United States Marine Corps veteran and communications major who returned to college with a mission — to inspire others through leadership, resilience, and service.

Originally from Texas, Michael served eight years in the Marine Corps, where he was stationed overseas and gained a deep appreciation for different cultures and the power of communication. After his military career, Michael entered the banking industry before deciding to pursue higher education. At Golden West College, he balanced his studies while being a father to two young children and remained dedicated to being a positive role model for his family and community.

Michael plans to transfer to California State University, Long Beach to complete his bachelor's degree in communications and later work in community outreach, mentoring veterans, first-generation students, and others who may feel overlooked. His ultimate goal is to use his experiences to guide and uplift others, proving that no matter how long the road or how many obstacles appear, it's never too late to grow, lead, and make a difference.

Noemi Guzman

Noemi Guzman is graduating with an Associate in Arts for Transfer (AA-T) degree in psychology and will continue her studies at California State University, Long Beach. She aspires to become a forensic psychologist specializing in criminal behavior and profiling.

During her time in college, Noemi served as Secretary of the Student Veteran Organization, where she supported the veteran community and gained valuable leadership experience.

Noemi looks forward to a career that combines psychological expertise with a commitment to justice and public service.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

During the 12th and 13th centuries, students wore habits, or cloaks with hoods, which were designed to provide warmth in unheated buildings. The more colorful modern academic costume, worn more for its symbolism than for any practical purpose, originated at Oxford and Cambridge universities in England in the 1300s, and has been continuously in use in the United States since colonial days.

The mortarboard cap represents no particular degree or school, except that the short, gold tassel is worn only by holders of the doctoral degree. The tassel may be worn on either side of the cap, or wherever the wind places it! The gown itself is usually black for all holders of baccalaureate or higher degrees. Bachelor's and master's degree styles differ little, but doctoral gowns are faced with velvet panels down the front and velvet bars on the bell-shaped sleeves. Only the hood itself shows by its length and colors the distinctions among degrees, academic majors, and colleges or universities which conferred the degrees. The higher the degree, the longer the hood and the wider the velvet facing which outlines the hood: bachelor's, master's, and doctor's hoods are three feet, three and one-half feet, and four feet long, respectively. In addition, the velvet trim is two, three, or five inches wide (narrowing only around the neck) in the same order of degrees. The color of the velvet facing denotes the academic area in which the degree was awarded, as listed below. The colors of the satin lining in the hood are the school colors of the institution where the degree was awarded (e.g., University of California colors are blue and gold, and the University of Southern California's, maroon and gold). Only the doctor's hood includes panels with narrow satin piping.
