Proposed Activities:

To address inequities experienced by our disproportionately impacted students, proposed activities will include providing opportunities and funding for all campus staff and students to attend student equity related conferences and workshops hosted on- and/or off-campus. The Student Equity and Achievement Program will identify eligible opportunities and sponsor attendance. Speakers and consultants will also be considered for campus-wide equity events including forums, faculty flex-days, classified professional development day, and management retreats. The sponsorship of student equity and cultural awareness events will also continue to address student engagement, self-identity, and empowerment.

Since the campus closure due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the Student Equity and Achievement Program utilized the funding allocation to sponsor a consultant that worked with the campus to bring awareness about the upcoming HEDS Survey, which is a tool to assess the campus climate in relation to equity and inclusion. This consultant also provided several sessions and workshops to all constituent groups including Classified, Faculty, Management, and Students. These workshop sessions focused in equity language and tools. The goal is to utilize the results of the survey to make informed decisions regarding future professional development programming focusing in addressing the campus climate issues that surface in the report.

Which DI group(s) are you addressing? – Not Rated

- Current or former foster youth
- Homeless students
- Lesbian, gay, bisexual, or transgender students
- Low-income students
- Students with disabilities
- Veterans
- Racial/Ethnic Category: American Indian or Alaska Native
- Racial/Ethnic Category: Asian
- Racial/Ethnic Category: Black or African American
- Racial/Ethnic Category: Hispanic or Latino
- Racial/Ethnic Category: Native Hawaiian or other Pacific Islander
- Racial/Ethnic Category: White
- Racial/Ethnic Category: Some other race
- Racial/Ethnic Category: More than one race
- Additional categories of students determined by the governing board of the community college district.
- All above DI Groups are being addressed.

What is the estimated number of disproportionately impacted (DI) students that will be served by your proposal and how will you engage/outreach these DI students in your project? (15 points)

Campus equity events for 2018 served over 2,500 students, while 2,824 students were served during the 2019-20 academic year prior to the campus closure due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The goal is to increase the number of served students by 10%, which will equate to a goal of serving over 3,100 students during the 2022-23 academic year.

In prior years, determining the number of specific disproportionately impacted groups served by professional development programming has been a challenge as there was no mechanism available for event check-ins. Moving forward, this challenge will be addressed by requiring all sponsored events to utilize the GWC App and Gecko program for event check-in and tracking, respectively. These mechanisms will gather student identification numbers, which will allow us to evaluate and disaggregate information by student demographics including ethnicity, gender, age, and participation of support programs. Sponsored events are open to all students and staff, which include opportunities that bring awareness of disproportionately impacted students including and not limited to Hispanic/Latinx, Black or African American, LGBTQ+, undocumented, veterans, and those that may be experiencing homelessness, food, and clothing insecurities.

Engagement and participation have also been a challenge. The institution serves over 10,000 students yet only 2,800 students have been served during this academic year, which is not an unduplicated number. It is important that the institution provides relevant events that speak to our student population and also cater to the availability of our students. To make informed decisions, we will reach out to students to gather information on topics that are interesting, relevant, and sensitive to all student backgrounds and experiences. Social media outlets and the GWC App will be utilized to in-reach and encourage participation and engagement. Event surveys will also be conducted to gather information on student satisfaction and relevancy. This information will be used to determine and adjust future event planning and be responsive.

Section 3: Data Collection

- The goal is to close the gap for these DI groups. How will your project realistically help with this goal, and what are your expected outcomes to be completed by June 2022? How are you going to close the gap? (15 points)

The office of Student Equity and Achievement Program is focused on increasing academic and racial equity awareness to shift the campus culture towards institutional responsibility versus student responsibility in response to academic barriers and success. One of the overarching goals of the Student Equity and Achievement Program is to institutionalize equity mindedness. To reach this goal, it is vital to provide professional development opportunities to all campus staff to further understand the inequities that are experienced by our disproportionately impacted student groups inside and outside the classroom. Students enrolling at our institution have diverse academic and personal backgrounds that impact their access of student services and the progression and completion of academic goals. Understanding student backgrounds and learning best practices to address student needs and inequities will contribute towards closing equity gaps by increasing the implementation of programs and services that are sensitive to our disproportionately impacted students, which will ultimately increase access, retention, and completion. Providing opportunities specifically for students is also an important component towards closing the equity gaps for DI groups through the sponsorship of campus equity events that support self-identity and empower students.

Specific opportunities for campus-wide staff will include the sponsorship and attendance of equity related conferences that provide and inform on best practices, which can positively impact students through the implementation of on-campus programs and services. The office of Student Equity and Achievement Program will also sponsor campus-wide equity events including forums, faculty flex-days, classified professional development day, and management retreats, which can further inform on institutional practices that both hinder and inhibit academic success. The sponsorship of student equity awareness events for student engagement will also be sponsored to address inequities experienced by disproportionately impacted student groups throughout the academic year. To increase the success of these opportunities, collaboration will continue with campus constituents through the dissemination and participation of available opportunities.

Opportunities for students is also an important component in order to increase their sense of belonging and inclusion. Hosting students to attend on campus events and conferences is an important factor in retention and completion of academic goals.

The expected outcome is to increase the number of staff and students positively impacted by equity related professional development and events. Although professional development and events are available campus-wide, only a small number of staff and students engage in these opportunities. The goal is to increase the number of staff and students that attend professional development and events by 10% during the 2022-23 academic year. An additional goal is to also increase the variety of opportunities of on-campus events by 10%.

- What data will you collect as you continue through the project and what is the source of the data? What tracking mechanism will you follow to ensure monthly/regular progress towards your goals? (5 points)

The expected outcomes are to increase the number of students served and increase the variety of relevant and culturally sensitive professional development and events. As part of the requirement to fund these events, those receiving sponsorship from our office will be required to collect information such as number of attendees, student identification numbers, and satisfaction surveys. Tracking mechanism will include the requirement of event check-ins using the GWC App. This platform will collect student identification numbers, which will be used to evaluate and disaggregate data based on ethnic background, gender, age, and special populations.

In addition, it is important to also evaluate and set a benchmark for equity awareness and mindedness from our campus staff at the beginning of the academic year and reassess at the end of the academic year. This will allow us to measure the goal to institutionalize equity mindedness and be able to assess and report on how professional development activities are supporting the goal to increase awareness of inequities experienced by disproportionately impacted students. This assessment can be delivered via a campus survey, which was developed in collaboration with the Center for Urban Education at the University of Southern California. It measures the level of awareness and knowledge from a staff member perspective.

In order to ensure regular progress towards our expected goals, the office of Student Equity and Achievement Program will implement protocols to ensure that correct platforms and satisfaction surveys are implemented prior to each event. All leaders of sponsored events will be required to develop surveys in collaboration with our Student Equity Researcher and will work with our Administrative Assistant to create a GWC App check-in system. A full data report will be developed by our Student Equity Researcher for each event.

- What current research justifies the use of this program? How does your proposal align with industry best practices? If there is a national or State model for this program, please provide a link to their website. (5 points)

The office of Student Equity and Achievement Program partnered with the Center for Urban Education at University of Southern California for two years to develop programming for professional development and equitable classroom practices. The Center for Urban Education has worked to bring equity-mindedness to higher education institutions via research and by providing equity tools for implementation. Their model includes the delivery of equity-mindedness institutes and by training institutional partners in developing an equity scorecard, which is a data tool that combines a theoretical framework and strategies to initiate institutional equity mindedness and change.

In addition, the office of Student Equity and Achievement Program has initiated a collaboration with Community College Equity Assessment Lab. This is a national research laboratory under the Interwork Institute at San Diego State University, which supports research, assessment, and training activities under student equity.

The following questions apply to renewal projects only. If this proposal is not a renewal, skip this section.

- Please summarize your progress toward closing equity gaps for the targeted population(s) as detailed in your project proposal. Please upload data tables obtained from the Office of Research, Planning, and Institutional Effectiveness in the question below. (Renewal Only) - *Not Rated

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, the campus was closed and professional development opportunities transitioned to virtual offerings at no cost. Therefore, the funds were utilized to sponsor a consultant that worked with the campus to bring awareness about the upcoming HEDS Survey, which is a tool to assess the campus climate in relation to equity and inclusion. This consultant also provided several sessions and workshops to all constituent groups including Classified, Faculty, Management, and Students. These workshop sessions focused in equity language and tools. The goal is to utilize the results of the survey to make informed decisions regarding future professional development programming focusing in addressing the campus climate issues that surface in the report.

In previous years, Professional development opportunities were increasing awareness in all aspects of the institution. Campus-wide conversations are taking place in all standing committees including the revision of mission statements that include equity and inclusion language.

Professional development opportunities for 2019-20 served over 2,800 students via campus-wide events. In addition, 100 staff members participated in professional development activities including Ally training program series, webinars, workshops, and conferences.

Phase I of the I Am GWC campaign is complete. Students from various backgrounds were professionally photographed and were asked to identify themselves using three characteristics. The photographs and characteristics were printed on banners and were posted around the inner quad and main entrances. The goal was to showcase our campus diversity so that all 10,000+ students can relate to our campus culture. Phase II is to increase banners around the campus perimeter so that the community can also relate and consider GWC a place for educational opportunities.

The Undocumented Student Week of Action was hosted by the Equity office for the second year during Fall 2019. Five days of advocacy related activities were hosted at GWC, including health and wellness, resource fair, art as activism, UndocuAlly training for students and staff, and a film screening. More than 10 community organizations providing advocacy and services for undocumented populations were present during our first resource fair. Student clubs and organizations also participated showing support to this student population. Over 550 students were in attendance throughout these events.

Nonviolent Crisis Intervention training was offered to all student services staff. This training included effective skills to safely manage and prevent difficult situations while serving students. The goal was to train staff in preparation to serving students in the new Student Services Center to create a culture of safety, enhance care and support, improve communication, improve productivity, and minimize risks.

- What activities and resources are necessary to sustain this project moving forward? (Renewal Only) - *Not Rated

Funding allocated specifically for events and professional development is necessary to continue to increase raise awareness on our disproportionately impacted groups. The barrier to event programming is funding. Having a specific allocation for campus-wide access will eliminate funding limitations to increase events that are relevant and culturally sensitive for our students. Professional development is a continual need to keep our campus-wide staff updated on latest models, initiatives, and equitable practices that can serve our students by implementing informed programs and services addressing student needs.

What is Disproportionate Impact

Disproportionate Impact occurs when a subset of students based on student characteristics such as race, gender, and abilities are unjustifiably experiencing lower outcomes compared to the total student population.

Using cohorts and outcomes from the California Community Colleges Chancellor's Office (CCCCO) Student Success Scorecard and DataMart, this document presents two methodologies to measure disproportional impact for disaggregated subgroups within the California Community Colleges (CCC) student population: the 80% test and the proportionality test.

Golden West College uses the proportionality methodology. This compares the percentage of a disaggregated subgroup in an initial cohort to its own percentage in the resultant outcome group. The formula for proportionality is the percentage in the outcome group divided by the percentage in the original cohort (outcome percentage/cohort percentage). For example, 7.9 percent of the first-time, "degree/transfer-seeking" cohort is comprised of African American or black students; whereas 6.0 percent of the students who achieved a successful outcome (i.e., degree, certificate, transfer, or transfer-prepared) were African American or black students. Dividing 6.0% by 7.9% we find a proportionality index of 0.76. The higher the proportionality, the higher the rate at which a subgroup has attained a desired educational outcome; the lower the proportionality index, the lower the attainment rate.

DI Groups. Colleges must assess the extent of student equity by gender for each of the following categories of students:

1. Current or former foster youth
2. Students with disabilities
3. Low-income students
4. Veterans
5. Students in the following ethnic and racial categories, as they are defined by the United States Census Bureau for the 2010 Census for reporting purposes:
 - American Indian or Alaska Native
 - Asian
 - Black or African American
 - Hispanic/Latinx
 - Native Hawaiian or other Pacific Islander
 - White
 - Some other race
 - More than one race
6. Homeless students
7. Lesbian, gay, bisexual, or transgender students
8. First-generation college students.
9. Additional categories of students determined by the governing board of the community college district.

Student Success Metrics. Colleges are required to set three-year goals from the SSM for the overall student population and for each student equity population shown to have disproportionate impact in the following areas:

1. Access – Successful Enrollment (The proportion who enrolled in the selected year.)
2. Retention – Fall to Spring (Retained from fall to spring at the same college)
3. Transfer to a four-year institution
4. Completion of transfer-level math and English (Readiness - within the first year and within the District)
5. Earned credit certificate over 18 units, associate degree, CCC bachelor's degree (Vision Goal Completion)
